Welcome to the first SAS Newsletter for 2008. As previous newsletters have proven too time consuming to compile and circulate, we're going to try a simpler format that we can prepare more easily and hopefully more frequently. The Society's website is currently undergoing an overhaul, and we should be able to provide links to the different items as they're updated.

One of the challenges facing Council is to operate the Society in a manner that is relevant and valuable for all its members. A key requirement for this is to have feedback from members. Please use this newsletter as an opportunity to make brief and/or informal comments by dropping me a line – any announcements, questions, gripes or other tidbits will be gratefully accepted !

Notes from the President

Nick Dumbreck's presentation at the Forum and AGM Dinner on 7 March 2008 was very interesting and timely.

Nick is the current President of the Institute of Actuaries and we were lucky to hear his two presentations. They illustrated well two of the issues facing us as Actuaries in Singapore.

- One is local, the need for us to act independently on matters affecting the Profession in Singapore as bodies such as the UK Institute and Faculty concentrate on local (UK) issues.
- The other is the current turbulence in World Financial Markets. This shows the need to apply sound actuarial practices to the issues that we, as actuaries, face. These practices have to be continually updated to keep pace with financial developments.

At the recent (11 March 2008) council meeting I outlined the plan for the Singapore Actuarial Society for the coming year. We are again expecting an active year and I am very much looking forward to that. A key area of activity is to provide members with an educational programme on actuarial topics. In 2008 we intend to:

- Continue the regular Forums that were held in 2007.
- Make the Life Insurance Appointed Actuary Symposium an annual event (hopefully add to this an annual Symposium for General Insurance Approved Actuaries)
- Hold a 2 day Conference on a suitable topic possibly Life Insurance related.

As well as these CPD related issues, Council would like to expand the help provided to students tackling the examinations of the various actuarial bodies.

In addition the SAS will continue to contribute to public debates in Singapore on matters where actuaries have expertise.
